

SUMMER GARDEN REVIEW

Summer is such an abundant season in the garden, full of harvesting and a hive of exciting activity. It's a good idea to finish off the season with a quick reflection to figure out what worked and what didn't.

Date:

Location:

What was successful in the garden or sparked joy? What would you grow again?

What was NOT successful in the garden? What do you think went wrong?

What areas of the garden received the most sun or shade? What would you change?

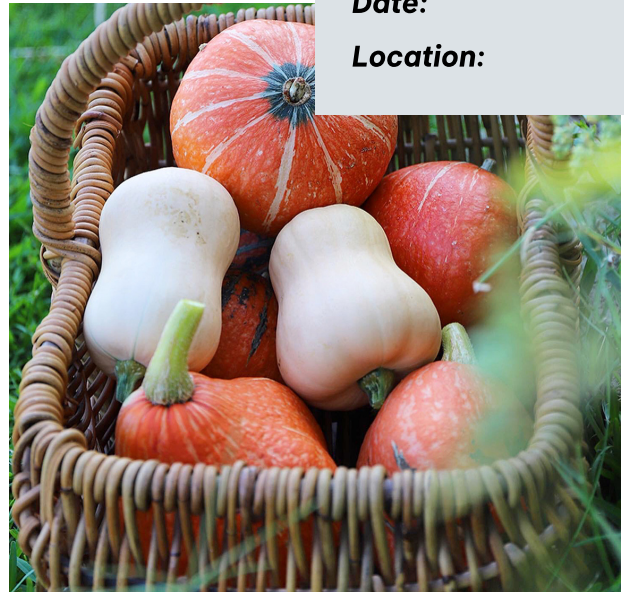

What seeds/ seedlings were planted and what plants/ trees were ready to harvest?

Other observations?

AUTUMN GARDEN REVIEW

Autumn is a time to finish harvesting, refresh and replenish the soil and get prepared for winter planting. It's a good idea to finish off the season with a quick reflection to figure out what worked and what didn't.

Date:

Location:

What was successful in the garden or sparked joy? What would you grow again?

What was NOT successful in the garden? What do you think went wrong?

What areas of the garden received the most sun or shade? What would you change?

What seeds/ seedlings were planted and what plants/ trees were ready to harvest?

Other observations?

WINTER GARDEN REVIEW

In winter things tend to grow slower and location and timing are very important. It's a good idea to finish off the season with a quick reflection to figure out what worked and what didn't.

Date:

Location:

What was successful in the garden or sparked joy? What would you grow again?

What was NOT successful in the garden? What do you think went wrong?

What areas of the garden received the most sun or shade? What would you change?

What seeds/ seedlings were planted and what plants/ trees were ready to harvest?

Other observations?

SPRING GARDEN REVIEW

Spring is an active time for gardeners which is a refreshing and much-welcomed change after slowing down during the winter months. It's a good idea to finish off the season with a quick reflection to figure out what worked and what didn't.

Date:

Location:

What was successful in the garden or sparked joy? What would you grow again?

What was NOT successful in the garden? What do you think went wrong?

What areas of the garden received the most sun or shade? What would you change?

What seeds/ seedlings were planted and what plants/ trees were ready to harvest?

Other observations?